

HOW TO: WRITE YOUR ELECTED OFFICIAL

Letters or emails are an extremely effective way of communicating with your elected officials. Many legislators believe that a letter represents, not only the position of the writer, but also, many other constituents who did not take the time to write.

Let them know who you are!

Write a brief introduction of yourself. Some ideas to get you started:

- Let them know that they represent you.
- Tell them how long you've lived in Minnesota.
- Are there certain pieces of legislation that you're particularly happy that they supported in the past? Let them know!

Tell them what you want...but keep it brief!

Letters should never be longer than one page and should be limited to one issue. Legislative aides read many letters on many issues in a day, so your letter should be as concise as possible.

Tell your legislators that you are a constituent and identify the issue about which you are writing. If your letter pertains to a specific piece of legislation, it helps to identify it by its bill number (e.g. H.F. ____ or S.F. ____).

Tell your elected official why this legislation matters in their community or state. If you have one, include a personal story that shows how this issue affects you and your family. A constituent's personal story can be very persuasive as your legislator shapes their position.

Remember: You're the expert!

Remember that your legislator's job is to represent you. You should be courteous and to the point, but don't be afraid to take a firm position. Remember that your elected official may know no more about a given issue than you do.

Thank them!

Express gratitude that they are taking time out of their day to read your letter.
